This was the first time for this event. The city closed to traffic two blocks in the center of town. Local non-profits, civic groups and businesses were offered booths to promote themselves. The fire and police departments as well as city department; water, planning, etc., were represented. Special programs within the school district were also represented. Dance schools performed, karate studios demonstrated, and so on.

Three members volunteered to have a table with a display board showing some of our activities, our club profile, business cards and of course a sign-up sheet for new member possibilities. We had a big bowl of chocolates as a draw to the table. This event was very well received and will be scheduled again next year.
